To Whomever it may concern,

This letter serves as a character reference for Aleksander Spasic. I have known Aleksander for quite some time. We have been colleagues in the field of International Logistics and Trade (Import/Export). Subsequently we became good friends and have kept in touch on a regular basis. My opinion of Aleksander is that he is an honest, forthright, dedicated, hard working individual with personal integrity and would be an asset to any company he chooses to work for.

Aleksander is a good team player who works very well with others. And unlike many people I have seen and known in the field of International Logistics over the years; Aleksander is professional and does not let his personal emotions get in the way of his job. In addition Mr. Spasic is bi-lingual speaking both English and Serbian.

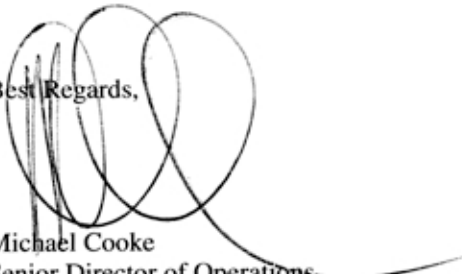

Mr. Spasic took an uncommon risk when he left Serbia in order to work in the field of International Logistics in the United States. The port of Los Angeles is the largest port in the United States and accounts for 48.6% of all imports/exports alone (est. 2008). It is a very difficult port to work in; even for people who have spent years in other USA ports.

Aleksander adapted very well and put forth the effort required to learn and succeed in this port which is impressive. As of 2008 Mr. Spasic was doing everything from A—Z. His responsibilities increased to the point in which he was handling shipments DOOR TO DOOR for both imports and exports. Including foreign port to port freight forwarding. By comparison many Freight Forwarder agents in the United States are pigeonholed and work in “assembly line” operations where they are only responsible for one specific job in which they do that job all day.

As a United States Customs Broker, we personally worked with Mr. Spasic importing a vast number of commodities from the European Union including, cosmetics, textiles, auto parts, and perishable goods. Whenever there was a problem with US Customs or further information or declarations required (which there were many times) I could rely on Mr. Spasic to assist in getting our company what we needed from overseas to clear U.S. Customs.

Given the above, and based on my experiences working with other Freight Forwarders, it is my opinion that Aleksander would be an asset to any company he chooses to work for. Please feel free to contact my company directly if you have any other questions, or need further information in regards to this reference letter. Thank you.

Best Regards,

Michael Cooke
